

Lufthansa Upgrades Newark Service; Adds Fourth Daily Flight

Plane will Feature Airline's New Business Class, Wireless Internet on-Board and Live Global Television Services

New York, April 6, 2006 – Lufthansa today announced it will add a second daily flight between Newark, New Jersey and the airline's hub in Frankfurt, Germany beginning June 12th, 2006. The plane, a new Airbus A330-300, will offer 221 seats in a three-class configuration, including 48 of the airline's new lie-flat Business Class seats and wireless Internet on-board (FlyNet) throughout the cabin. Since January 2006, passengers are also able to access live global television from in-flight while using their laptops.

Flight LH 483 will depart Newark at 9:40p.m. and arrive in Frankfurt at 11:15 a.m. local time the next day, offering attractive connections to top European destinations. The return flight LH 482 will leave Frankfurt at 5:10 p.m. and arrive in Newark at 7:50 p.m. local time the same day. With the addition of this flight, Lufthansa strengthens its commitment to providing non-stop travel between the east coast and the heart of Europe – offering New York-area travellers a choice of eight daily departures, just in time for the busy summer travel season.

“Featuring the longest bed in Business Class at 6.5 feet, a unique entertainment and information program, and Lufthansa's exclusive FlyNet service, the new Business Class product will satisfy Newark passengers' expectations for the highest quality, innovation, and state-of-the-art technology for which Lufthansa is known,” said Don Bunkenburg, Director of Passenger Corporate Sales and Regions, North America for Lufthansa.

In addition, starting May 3, Lufthansa's Newark-Munich Business Jet flight will depart three hours later, at 6:05 p.m., arriving in Munich at 8:15 a.m. local time the next day. This will provide Newark-departing travellers with more work time during the day, as well as greater connection possibilities both to and from Munich.
