

Checklist for transporting animals in the cabin

Preparing for your journey

- You have made sure that taking your pet with you on your journey (outbound and return flight) as additional carry-on baggage in the cabin conforms to the current entry and exit regulations of all the countries concerned.
- Any necessary veterinary examinations or treatments (e.g. vaccinations, microchipping) have been completed in good time before your journey.
- You have asked your vet about any medication that may need to be administered to your pet during the journey.
- The official and veterinary documents required for your pet (e.g. pet passport) are ready.
- You have made sure that you can also take your pet with you into the cabin on any other airlines involved in your journey.
- You have booked your flight and registered your pet for carriage in the cabin in good time (no later than 24 hours before departure) at your travel agency or via the Lufthansa Service Center and have received a corresponding booking confirmation.
- You have two fully completed and signed printouts of our form 'Transporting an animal in the passenger cabin'.
- You have obtained a suitable transport container that meets the stated requirements for such containers.
- The transport container is lined with absorbent material (no newspaper, cardboard or straw!).
- Your pet is familiar with the transport container.
  - To keep your pet calm, you have put, for example, a 'comfort blanket', an old item of your clothing or your pet's favourite toy in the transport container.
  - You have a lead and a suitable harness (recommended) or a collar ready.

On the day of departure

- You must bring your pet in a suitable transport container to the check-in counter approximately two hours before departure.
- Please present the following documents for your pet at the check-in counter:
  - the official and veterinary documents for your pet (e.g. pet passport)
  - two fully completed and signed printouts of the form 'Transporting an animal in the passenger cabin'.
  - You have your booking confirmation or passenger receipt in your carry-on baggage.
  - You will settle the costs for transporting your pet when checking in or at the ticket counter.
- Your pet is wearing a harness (recommended) or collar.
- You have packed a lead in your carry-on baggage.
